

LOCKDOWN LOGS

Your invitation to help create a play...

How? Before lockdown, the Drama department was researching in to staging a play next academic year but now none of those options seem to 'fit' quite right. So...I thought we could write a play about experiences and inspirations through these times and who better than to write a play about lockdown but you?

The idea is that you submit a poem / short scene / monologue / duologue / song about how lockdown life has been. It could be about what's changed, what you miss, your worries, your new experiences, anything that has been a pleasant surprise. It could be happy, sad, melancholy or just an appreciation. You would need to keep the idea of social distancing in mind in terms of staging too.

You would need to submit pieces to me as soon as you felt they were finished, try not to exceed a maximum time of 4 minutes, and definitely by the deadline of:

Monday, 13 JULY 2020

Miss Thomas will compile and collate them and lo and behold the end result will be a play authored by you!

To contribute please email:
sorrel.thomas@buxton.derbyshire.sch.uk
Submissions can request anonymity